THE TOUCH OF A VANISHED HAND

Oh, why should the world seem strange,
With its beauty around me still?
And why should the slope of my swarded path
Seem suddenly all uphill?

I had gone, with a buoyant step,
So cheerily on my way;
How could I believe so calm a light
Could turn to so chill a gray?

And wherefore? Because the hand
That held in its clasp my own—
Whose touch was a benediction such
As only the blest have known—

Was caught by the viewless hand
Of an angel, and upward drawn.
What hope, what comfort, what guidance now,
Since the stay of my life is gone?

"But a stronger is left to thee,"
Some comforting whisper saith—
"The arm that shall carry thee safe to him
When thou crossest the tides of death."

If Christ in His mortal hour
Had need of the chosen three,
To watch with Him through the awful throes
Of His dread Gethsemane,

Oh, surely His human heart
Will pity and understand
That speechless yearning, too deep for words,
For the "touch of the vanished hand!"
—Margaret J. Preston in Harper's Bazar.

The Invention and Manufacture of Pins.

It is flattering to our patriotism to learn that the first solid head pin, although made in England and its manufacture delayed until 1824, was the invention of an American, Lemuel W. Wright by name; and it was another ingenious American, Dr. John T. Howe, of Connecticut, who, some eight years later, invented the first successful machine for completing solid headed pins by a single process.

Marvelous, indeed, does this seem when we pause to consider that prior to the invention of this machine it required from twelve to fourteen men to complete a pin; there were as many different processes in its manufacture, each requiring to be performed separately and by a different hand. A single machine now turns out a constant stream of pins, averaging 200 a minute, all ready to be transferred into revolving barrels, where they are turned until scoured sufficiently to be plunged into an acid bath from which they emerge, bearing out the old saying, clean as a new pin.

One machine performs the several duties of holding and crimping the paper sheets and sticking the pins into them, in even rows, with remarkable dexterity.—Table Talk.

Trains Stopped by Grasshoppers.

I saw two freight trains at Springer stopped by grasshoppers. The idea that the trains are stopped by running into piles of the grasshoppers is wrong. They just cover the tracks, and the passing trains kill them. The oil from them greases the rails and wheels so that the latter slip instead of revolving, therefore the stoppage of trains.

The hoppers get so thick sometimes that they have to be brushed off the tracks. Sand is also spread along the tracks to keep them rough and prevent the trains from slipping from grasshopper oil. It is nothing remarkable that the oil from them should stop trains. A little grease rubbed on the tracks or wheels of a locomotive will have the same effect.—Kansas City Times.

Wrestling with the Muse.

There is a fruit vender of the basket persuasion in the city who is evidently in love, and, judging from his efforts at poetic recitation, his fair inamorata is not of his own race. He kills the weary hours that intervene between customers in committing to memory bits of love stuff with which, perhaps, to fan the flame in the bosom of his adored. He was heard Sunday wrestling with an old familiar rhyme, as follows: "Da rosa maka da red, da vila maka da blue; da shug maka da sweeta da cand; ma Carissima, sama da you!"—Birmingham (Ala.) News.

Vanity in Criminals.

A famous Russian writer, who passed many years among convicts, says of them: "This strange family had an air of strong resemblance. All of them were morose, curious, presumptuous and insufferably vain. Vanity was at the bottom of all their sentiments. During all the period of my observation I never saw the slightest sign of repentance or even of disquiet on account of their crimes."

Feats of a Blind Man.

Some little time ago Farmer Barbour, of Sterling, Conn., sued that town for exemption from taxation on the ground that he was blind. The town placed witnesses on the stand to prove that he could mow, hoe and load hay. Mr. Barbour explained how he could do these things, though totally devoid of sight, and gained his case.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

A Convict Who Loves to Steal.

"Lord, how I do love to steal! If I had thousands I would still be a thief."

The exclamation was made by a young jailbird in the hearing of Dr. Robert Fletcher, who quoted it by way of illustration in the course of a lecture on the relation of the criminal to society.—Washington Star.

A Close Call.

"Oh, ma, I nearly had a horse!"

"Why, what do you mean?"

"There was a man out here with a horse, and I asked him if I could have it and he said no. If he'd said yes I'd a had it!"—Life.

Must Shift the Weight.

She—The boat doesn't seem to trim. Am I sitting straight?

He—Yes; but your chatelaine is too far to the left.—New York Times.

IN THE WATER WITH A RATTLER.

Wiley Pressed the Button and the Snake Came Near Doing the Rest.

J. C. Wiley, of Brooklyn, who had been enjoying his outing in the vicinity of Blood's, this county, was a passenger homeward bound on Erie train 8. Mr. Wiley told a reporter at the depot that he was going home a week before his outing was over because he had a little experience with a rattlesnake on the Cohocton that had rather unnerved him.

"I was trout fishing Saturday," said Mr. Wiley, "and was wading down the stream with tolerably good success with the trout, when just ahead of me I saw a snake swimming the creek. I didn't notice what kind of a snake it was, but reaching down in the water I found a good sized flat stone and tossed it at the snake. My aim was so good that the stone struck the snake near or on the head, and carrying it to the bottom with its weight pinned it there. The head was held tight beneath the stone, but the tail and a couple of feet of the body were thrust above the surface, where they thrashed about furiously, and I discovered that the reptile was a rattlesnake.

"Acting on the impulse of the moment I did then probably as foolish a thing as any man ever did. I stepped to where the snake's noisy tail and writhing body were lashing about in the water, and seizing the tail jerked the snake from beneath the stone, with the intention of whipping it against a tree that stood at the edge of the creek. Although the snake's head had been jammed down on the bottom by a stone and held there for nearly a minute, the venomous and now furious reptile had plenty of life and no end of malice left.

"I had no sooner jerked his head from under the stone and above the water when he turned on me like a flash, shot his head back and sank his fangs in the sleeve of my fishing coat just above the wrist. If he had aimed half an inch lower the curved injectors of his venom would have punctured my flesh, and I would doubtless have been saved all of life's subsequent trials. In another second I hurled the deadly reptile from me. It lay for a moment quietly on the water, and then slowly swam on its way.

"It was all I could do to get to the shore, so deathly sick and cold had I become when the full force of the peril my rashness had placed me in rushed upon me. I fell on the bank in a half unconscious state, and it was a long time before I could walk back to where I was stopping. That adventure spoiled all my inclination for rural vacation, and I am going home."—Corning Chronicle.

The Power of Prejudice.

The wife of a New Zealand missionary once had an interview with a native matron who confessed that she would die with shame at the idea of permitting her boy to "run about with an undressed face," i. e., with cheeks free from tattoo marks. The attempt to save native youngsters from the martyrdom of the absurd custom caused repeated riots and disagreeable scenes with the indignant relatives; and with a similar emphasis the eastern Hindoos protest against the abolishment of infant marriages.

In Calcutta alone the indignation meeting of the priests was attended by 185,000 natives, including hundreds of rajahs, merchant princes and scholars, besides tradesmen and peasants. The women of Bengal observed a general fast on the "day of protest;" shrieks and howls filled the air; the population of several cities seemed to have gone crazy en masse. One fanatic offered to sacrifice his life to propitiate the wrath of heaven, and considering the unanimity of the opposition it is the question if the abandonment of the proposed reform would not be a lesser evil. —Philadelphia Times.

Quakers in Great Britain.

It is commonly supposed that the Society of Friends is a dwindling body. Many will be surprised to learn that, so far from this being the case, its members and associates in this country have increased during the last twenty years from 18,000 to about 22,000. In Great Britain there are about 16,000 in actual membership, besides 6,000 others, who, by the regular attendance of its meetings, are practically identified with the body. These 22,000 Friends live mainly in England, where there are about 320 congregations. The Calvinism of Scotland and Wales will probably account for the fact that less than 300 Friends and only about ten small meetings are to be found in those countries. —London Tit-Bits.

Degrees of Comparison.

On public occasions Count Von Moltke was frequently called upon to propose the health of the emperor. At small gatherings he would confine himself to the formula, "Long live the emperor!" On more important occasions he would say, "Long life to his majesty the emperor." At large public banquets the toast culminated in the words, "Long life to his majesty the emperor; our most gracious king and master!"—Allgemeine Zeitung.

Pumpkins Two Feet Thick.

Quite a wonderful tree is the calabash of the West Indies, which bears enormous fruits that resemble pumpkins and grow to be nearly two feet in diameter. With the pulp removed they serve various domestic purposes—for carrying water and even as kettles for cooking—having the great advantages of strength and lightness.—Washington Star.

THE SINGER'S THREE SHAWLS.

How Henriette Sontag Became Connected with the Berlin Theater.

When the theater was founded in Berlin in 1824 the directors sought to gain special talent for the young stage in order to secure rich dividends.

Henriette Sontag, who was then eighteen, was the rising meteor on the artistic horizon. Two of the directors journeyed to Leipsic in order to induce the artiste to sign a contract for several years.

In Leipsic they met messengers from other theatres, who surrounded the lovely singer with the same appeal. After days of negotiation they made no headway. A rich financier from Berlin, tired of the delay, adopted measures which could not fail to have the desired effect upon the young and pretty but poor artiste.

He bought a beautiful shawl, and presenting it to the singer he pointed to the pen to sign the contract.

Never had Henriette Sontag possessed so pretty an article of apparel. Completely overcome by the splendor of so rich a gift, she turned to her sister Nina and said, "Nina, I am faint: please sign."

So she was bound by a contract, and formed the chief attraction for three years not only of the theater but of the city of Berlin.

The receipts of the theater were enormous, yet several shareholders reproached the managers of the treasury for making unnecessary expenditures, and demanded, therefore, strict account for the use of the money.

These expenditures were soon made public, and it soon came out in the newspapers that the shawl which the singer received in Leipsic was presented without the consent of the shareholders.

The morning this fact was published in the papers Fraulein Sontag sealed up the valuable present, and, with true womanly tact, sent it to the directors of the theater.

Her messenger had scarcely entered the assembly room when the news of the occurrence spread all over the city, and in the evening of the same day a Turkish shawl lay on the singer's toilet table. It had been sent by the king and was more valuable than the first one.

Early the following day the financier and director of the theater, who had given her the shawl in Leipsic, was announced, and as he presented her with a far costlier shawl he jokingly reproached the lovely Henriette for giving away his present and begged her not to let this one share the same fate. This present was from himself independent of the shareholders.

Finally, by a unanimous decree, the directors appeared in a body before the public's favorite to restore the shawl in question to its rightful owner.—Philadelphia Times.

A little story was related at the navy yard the other day which concerns Rear Admiral Thomas O. Selfridge, retired, who is visiting his son, Captain Thomas O. Selfridge, the commandant of the navy yard. Some years ago the admiral, who is the oldest living United States naval officer, being over ninety years of age, was dining at Delmonico's, in New York, with a distinguished company, among whom were Generals Grant, Garfield, Arthur, Sherman and Sheridan. At 10 o'clock, when the festivities were at their height, the old admiral arose from the table and called for his hat and coat. All were surprised at his action and asked for an explanation. He replied that he never permitted enjoyment to interfere with his health, and that 10 o'clock was a good hour for him to retire.

All present laughed heartily, chaffed him a little and begged him to remain.

He could not, however, be coaxed to remain. After bidding them good night he added, "Early to bed and sound sleep tend to longevity and I'm going to prove it to you all." All except the admiral who were present at the banquet that evening have passed away. The admiral has kept his word. —Boston Globe.

Giving Away Brides.

A novel gift enterprise has been introduced in the clothing business by a Washington firm, which actually give away a blushing bride to any of their customers who apply. All that the applicant has to do is to purchase a wedding suit. The firm do the rest—furnish the bride, the best man and the officiating clergyman. Six of their customers have already taken advantage of this offer, and it is claimed that the supply of brides, as well as wedding suits, is practically unlimited.

On the last occasion the bride, a tall and willowy brunette, was tastefully attired in a traveling costume of tan colored Henriette cloth, with hat to match. The groom wore a black diagonal coat and vest, with dark gray striped trousers. Immediately after the ceremony the newly married pair drove to the station for an extended bridal trip.—Clothier and Furnisher.

Never Parted His Name.

Speaking of Judge Calhoun suggests a good story about his middle name, which is Ezekiel.

"I asked my father once," said the judge, "why he ever put such a thing as Ezekiel in my name, as, to the best of my recollection, no family precedent or close friendship with anybody of that name warranted it.

"'My son,' said he, 'I did it to keep you from ever parting your name in the middle,' and the judge has never parted it."—Atlanta Constitution.

SONOMA, SEPTEMBER 5, 1891.

SHE ELOPED.

Katie Rice Runs Away from Petaluma with a Sporting Man and Winds Up in the City Prison.

Saturday afternoon Chief of Police Crowley received the following telegraph from Petaluma:

Arrest Gambler Mile's wife and two young men, who left here today on 4:30 train, carrying away my daughter, about sixteen years of age. She is supposed to live on Fifth, Sixth or Seventh streets between Howard and Mission. Thomas J. Rice.

The dispatch was given to officer Anthony with instructions to look the matter up, and about an hour later another dispatch was received, which read as follows:

Find Mrs. Canz, 572 Minna street. If not there try St. Elmo House. Make her tell where the girl is. Left in her company.

Yesterday afternoon the girl was found in the house of Mrs. Canz and was taken to the City Prison to await the arrival of her father, who is proprietor of the City Hotel, Petaluma. The girl states that she has been kept by her father doing the chamber work of the hotel, which was regular drudgery. While so employed she met Lee Edward Kirkpatrick, a sporting man who has been following the race horses from fair to fair, and he induced her to elope with him. They boarded the train at Petaluma Saturday and went as far as San Rafael, where they went to the office of a Justice of the Peace, and having procured a license were married. The father of the girl claims that she is but sixteen, while she declares she has passed her eighteenth birthday.

Yesterday Mr. Rice arrived from Petaluma, and this morning had an interview with his new son-in-law, the outcome of which was that he visited the office of Chief of Police Crowley and informed that official that he had determined to make the best of a bad job and not take any further action in the matter. As a consequence an order for the release of Mrs. Kirkpatrick was made out. The father and the husband then visited the City Prison Hospital where Kittie had been placed in the charge of Matron Gilmore. When her husband appeared Mrs. Kirkpatrick fell on his neck and kissed and hugged him to her heart's desire, but had comparatively little to say to her father. Together the trio left the City Prison and entering a hack were driven away. The honeymoon, which was so rudely interrupted by Officer Anthony, will now be resumed.—Bulletin.

HERE is a good story from the Scientific American: A man wanted to learn what profession he would have his son engage in. He put him in a room with an apple, a bible and a silver dollar. He left the room and decided that if upon his return he found him reading the Bible he would make a minister of him; if he was eating the apple he would make a farmer of him; and if he had the dollar in his pocket he would make a banker of him. He came back and found him sitting on the Bible, eating the apple, and had the dollar in his pocket. He made a politician of him.

A REGULAR army officer, after inspecting Connecticut's Militia Bicycling Crops, recommends its adoption in our army. In England and Europe the bicycle has been used with good results in army maneuvers. It has beaten cavalrymen in messenger and reconnoitering service.

City Cousin—I see the farmhouse next to this one is closed. Why is that? Rural Relative—Mrs. Hayfork, who lives there, has gone to the seaside for the summer. She says it's cheaper than stayin' on the farm and feedin' city relations.—N. Y. Weekly.

Deafness Can't be Cured.

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachain Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound and imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube resorted to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the nauseous medicine often literally poured into it for the suppositive relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they who are weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated or rheumatic, would oftener be guided by the experience of invalids who have thoroughly tested Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the speediest aid derivable from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a medicinal stimulant not to be found in the fiery local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

Now Try This.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a Cough, Cold, or any trouble with Throat, Chest or Lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to give relief, or money will be paid back. Sufferers from La Grippe found it just the thing and under its use had a speedy and perfect recovery. Try a sample bottle at our expense and learn for yourself just how good a thing it is. Trial bottles free at Ed. Wegner's Drug Store. Large bottle, 50c and $1.00.

Poisonous Fish.

I have known two kinds of poisonous fish in the Cape waters, one of them small and the other large. The latter kind is known by the local name of "keeler," and is, as a rule, good to eat, although the oil is the most profitable use it can be put to. Only at certain times is it poisonous. Cape fishermen declare that they can discern at these times a poisonous streak of water from its color, which they say is a dark dirty brown. It is said to be accompanied by an unusual display of phosphorus. Occasionally the mussels are poisonous, and one year several pig faced baboons out of a troop which have long haunted the Cape peninsula were picked up dead after eating them. Sly and sagacious as the baboons are in selecting their food they are scarcely wary enough to guard against this periodical epidemic.

Within recent years several Malay fishermen have died from the effects of eating the "keeler." Fortunately it is not a common fish, and experience in time may remind the Malays that when there are so many good fish in their waters it is folly to experiment upon the doubtful ones. The other poisonous fish is a small toadlike object, with a small mouth, which often takes the red bait intended for others. It puffs itself out with venomous wrath, and it is well to avoid handling it. The local name for it is "Billy blaas-op," or Billy blow-up.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Tortonia the Banker.

A striking instance of the elevation of a person from humble to exalted circumstances is found in the life of Tortonia, a celebrated banker of Rome, whose father was nothing more than a valet de place, or a guide, who showed about strangers for hire. Tortonia, who was an active, intelligent young man, at first entered into business in a small way as a jeweler. In course of time he became a sort of banker, and an unexpected circumstance brought him in contact with Cardinal Chiaramonti.

On the death of Pope Pius VI a conclave was to be held at Venice for the election of a new pope. Chiaramonti had expectations of being elected to the vacant office, but he was unable to attend the conclave for want of money. In this emergency he was supplied with a few hundred crowns by Tortonia. The cardinal now repaired to Venice, where, in the church of St. George, he was elected pope, under the title of Pius VII. In gratitude for this act of service the sovereign pontiff on his return to Rome appointed Tortonia banker to the court. He was created a marquis, and afterward a duke, and became one of the richest capitalists in Europe.—New York Ledger.

Petty Extortion.

"There is an abuse in the selling of newspapers against which there should be a general outcry by the victims," said ex-Governor R. C. McCormick to me recently. "I refer to the charging of an extra price to guests at hotels who buy papers at news stands, and to travelers who buy papers on trains. Of all public enterprises that are fostered by newspapers the railroads get more help ten times over than any other. Yet they allow the newspapers to be handicapped in sales on trains by an extra charge of one or two cents. The same thing is true at hotel news stands. There is no reason why the guest of a hotel should be compelled to pay two or three or four cents for a paper which he can buy on the curb in front for one or two or three cents. It is simply petty extortion, and it is probably because it is petty that no one raises serious objection to it."—New York Press.

He Didn't Get It.

London cabmen have many temptations to impose upon their "fares," and it is hardly to be wondered at that they sometimes catch a tartar in the attempt. The author of "The Philosopher in Slippers" says that a large part of their undue gains is derived from timid women, who find it difficult to withstand their bluster. Still, even a woman may rebel upon occasion.

A lady who once gave a cabman an extra sixpence after paying his proper fare, found that he was not disposed to be grateful.

"Well, mum," said he, ungraciously, "I'll take the money, but I don't thank you for it."

"You haven't it yet," said she, alertly withdrawing the sixpence, and he never did have it.

The Harmattan or Withering Wind.

The name of harmattan has been given a periodical wind which blows from the interior of Africa toward the Atlantic ocean during the three months of December, January and February. It sets in with a fog or dry haze which sometimes conceals the sun for whole weeks together. Every plant, bit of grass and leaf in its course is withered as though it had been scared by heat from a furnace; often within an hour after it begins to blow green grass is dry enough to burn like paper. Even the hardened natives lose all of the skin on exposed parts during the prevalence of this withering wind.—St. Louis Republic.

NEW TO-DAY.

Scrofula

Is more especially than any other a hereditary disease, and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease locates itself in the lymphatics, which are composed of white tissues; there is a period of fretal life when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreadful disease. But there is a potent remedy for scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels every trace of the disease and gives to the blood the quality and color of health. Get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"When my boy was two years old he was attacked and suffered a long time with scrofula sores. The physician at length told us to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we did. Two bottles cured him. He is now 10 years old and has not had any sign of scrofula since. We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all our friends." MRS. E. C. CLIPPER, 8 Kidder St., Cleveland, O.

CUCUMBER and ELDER FLOWER CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burns and freckles, and blackheads will not come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 104 Post street, San Francisco, where she treates ladies for all blemishes of the face and figure. The town was thrown into a state of excitement last Saturday evening by the report that the Union Hall was in flames. Upon investigation, however, it was discovered that a quantity of red lights, which had been left in the hall by M. Peter, a San Francisco costumer, had from some unknown cause taken fire, and instantly the hall was brightly illuminated and filled with smoke. In a short time the fire was put out, when it was discovered that no damage had been done except the loss of a few masquerade costumes valued at about $15. These were in a valise upon which Mr. Peter had laid the red lights.

CITY TRUSTEES.

Chief of the Fire Department Rebuked.

The Dignity of the Sexton of Mountain Cemetery Offended.

The City Trustees met in regular monthly session last Wednesday evening, Trustees Poppe, Wegner, Weyl and Litzius, Clerk Breitenback and Marshal Sparks being present.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, Trustee Weyl of the Fire and Water Committee reported that no coupling for the suction hose is needed, and that he would not recommend the purchase of one. No further action was taken in regard to the matter.

The following bills were presented: F. Breitenbach, Assessor's salary, $50; Lee Bulotti, labor, $11.65; G. W. Sparks, salary and services, $17; Sonoma Fire Company, cleaning fire apparatus, $4 85.

On motion of Trustee Weyl, which received a second from Trustee Wegner, the bill of the firemen was laid over till next meeting, and warrants ordered drawn for the other bills, including the bills of last month which were laid over for lack of money in the treasury to pay them.

Trustee Wegner introduced ordinance No. 42, entitled: "An ordinance for the protection of property in the city of Sonoma and of the fire apparatus owned by said city." The new ordinance is prefaced as follows: "To prevent a repetition of the late conduct of the Chief of the firemen, who took the fire apparatus outside of the city limits against the special regulations of the ordinance and against the protest of the most interested citizens, who considered the city in immediate danger of burning down, I herewith introduce an amendment to said ordinance with a penalty attached and otherwise more complete."

Victor Janson, Sexton of Mountain Cemetery, appeared before the Board and complained that on August 22d Julius Fochetti, ignoring his authority as Sexton, had a grave dug in said cemetery without his permission, contrary to the Health ordinance.

After discussing the matter the Board decided to refer the same to the Cemetery Committee, which shall recommend to the Board at its next meeting such action as will protect the Sexton in his rights and prevent similar acts in the future.

The Board then adjourned to meet on Monday, September 14, at 10 A. M., when the tax levy for the year 1891 will be made.

NEARLY KILLED.

A Sonoma Lady Run Over by a Cable Car in San Francisco.

Mrs. Henry Winkle of this place met with an accident in San Francisco on Thursday of last week that nearly cost the lady her life. She had just alighted from a cable car on Larkin street, when she was knocked down by another car coming from an opposite direction. She was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into a residence near by and a physician called in. Upon examination it was found that one of her arms was broken and that her head was badly cut and bruised. The life guards with which the cable cars are now supplied with is all that saved the lady from being instantly killed.

At latest accounts Mrs. Winkle was doing as well as could be expected, considering her age and injuries, which are not necessarily fatal.

A singular episode occurred in connection with the accident. When Mrs. Winkle was picked up her face was covered with blood and when she was carried into the residence above mentioned she was supposed to be an entire stranger to the inmates. After the blood had been washed from her face and her wounds attended to by the doctor the ladies of the house repaired to the room of the sufferer, when Mrs. Winkle was instantly recognized by Mrs. Duhring of this place, who by a singular coincidence was a visitor at the house.

Two Young Ladies Meet With an Accident.

On Wednesday afternoon last as Miss McRoberts and Miss Dora Howe, daughter of Hon. Robt. Howe, were out riding in a two-horse carriage, the harness gave way when near Shellville, and Miss Howe who was driving lost control of the animals and both the girls were thrown out, and badly shaken up. No bones were broken and the young ladies, who are under the care of Dr. Davis, will be up and around in a day or two.

No more handsome present can be given than a fine life size crayon picture. Get Henry Baron to do one and have it for a Christmas present the coming holidays. *

The children of the Indian Sears, grandchildren of old Vincente, are seriously ill with a disease resembling diphtheria.

The manse of Mr. Norman Heggie has been improved by the addition of a porch, where he may watch "the lingering star with less'ning ray."

On Wednesday Grandpa Morris, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Anderson and Mrs. George Cumming, drove a gay team to Shellville, where they spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Akers. Not having seen Grandma Akers, though so near neighbors, for over twenty years, Grandpa Morris renewed his youth in reminiscences of other days—the good old days of yore.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Was the Proposition Legally Carried at the Recent Election?

At the recent election held in eight school districts in Sonoma Township for a Union High School the proposition was carried in six districts and defeated in two. The remaining six which voted in the affirmative through their school trustees, met in Sonoma a short time after the election and organized by electing a High School Board of Trustees, taking it for granted that they were at liberty to found a High School. About the same condition of things exists in San Joaquin county, with the exception that twelve school districts voted on the proposition. Of these, four voted in favor and eight against the High School. Recently the Attorney General was requested to give an opinion in regard to the matter. Deputy Attorney General Sanders, in the absence of his chief, looked up the matter and last week rendered an opinion to the effect that the four districts in San Joaquin could not organize a High School district because they had voted to establish a Union district, to be composed, not of four, but of twelve districts. If the opinion of Attorney Sanders be good law, another election will have to be called in the six school districts voting in the affirmative in Sonoma Township. This appears to be about the safest way out of the dilemma.

The bride was costumed in a pretty robe of white, ornamented with lace and ribbon, A long white illusion veil fell in soft folds around the fair young form. Immediately after the ceremony congratulations were extended to the happy couple, after which a fine luncheon was served at the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will make San Francisco their future home

The wedding of Miss May Sullivan of Glen Ellen and Mr. Ed. Ferguson was quietly solemnized at St. Francis' Church by the Rev. Father Brennan last Wednesday morning Miss Sophia Williams acted as bridesmaid and Mr. John Kearney as best man. The bride was neatly attired in a pretty grey traveling costume. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was partaken of at the Union Hotel, after which the bridal party enjoyed a drive around the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson took the afternoon train for the metropolis where the honeymoon will be spent. The friends of this young couple extend to them their sincere congratulations and hope that their matrimonial path may be strewn with sweet flowers of happiness and prosperity.

GRAPE GROWERS' DIRECTORY.

A New One Issued by the Viticultural Commission.

The Board of State Viticultural Commissioners has just issued a new directory of the grape growers, wine makers and distillers of California, which has been under preparation for some time past.

The new edition is valuable in itself as a statistical reference, and is replete with all the necessary information likely to prove serviceable to persons engaged in the industry. Not only is the name and address of the owner given, but the acreage in the different classes of grapes and the varieties planted.

It shows in detail that there are in the neighborhood of 7500 grape growers in the State, cultivating a total of 168,366 acres. Of these 122,168½ acres are in bearing and 46,197½ not bearing. There are 90,228 acres in wine grapes, 9300½ acres in table grapes and 68,837½ acres in raisin grapes.

The directory is published by the State and can be obtained at the offices of the commission on payment of 6 cents, the mailing charges.

Newspaper Callers.

The average citizen has very little idea of the number of calls which are daily inflicted upon the editor of a big newspaper. I was not with the colonel over five minutes, and during that time at least ten men called to see him on various matters. Men wanting positions, men with schemes and men with advice, men with favors to ask, men to borrow money and men with manuscripts to sell. They all insist upon seeing the editor, and each regards his business as the most important of the day.

It is a never ending stream, and each man is mortally offended if he is kept waiting or refused an audience, and yet newspaper men who are familiar with the manifold claims upon an editor's time are the loudest in their complaints about the "red tape" which compels them to send in their cards and state their business before they are admitted. They want to march right in to the editor's desk, roost on the edge of his table and compose themselves for a comfortable chat.

If a paper could be run without outside interruptions the editor would have an enjoyable time, but being the target for an assorted gang of cranks, bores and nuisances, he is obliged, in justice to himself and his readers, to hedge himself about with some protection. If men had more sense this would not be necessary.—Allen Forman in New York Journalist.

Witty and Pathetic Eugene Field.

Eugene Field, of Chicago, whose delicate humor and verses of pathos have given him a reputation not bounded by the confines of this country, is about forty-five years old. In personal appearance he is long and lank, and the hair on his head and face is not abundant. Few men probably possess wider extremes of character, and in nothing is this shown more plainly than in his writing and in his treatment of persons. He has made many enemies, his temptation to satirize friends as well as foes being under little restraint, while the propensity to play pranks which marked him while a schoolboy at Monson, Mass., is still strong in his nature.

The bump of veneration was evidently left out when he was made, and the higher the respectability of the victims of his jokes and jibes the keener seems to be the enjoyment of the perpetrator. But underlying this exterior is a tenderness for children which is touching. Mr. Field lives quietly with his family, and his home is filled with books, many of them strange old tomes, which none but a real book lover could crave.—Harper's Weekly.

Nature's Razor Strop.

There are now blooming in St. Augustine sixteen plants of the agave Victoria regina species, or what is commonly called the century plant. A towering column rises out of the center plant to the height of sixty feet, but it is often relegated to the rubbish heap as worthless, for the reason that as a thing of beauty it has no further charms for the eye. Yet many thousands of the shaving people of the Old World utilize this shaft of the plant. They make use of it as a razor strop.

Mr. W. Chambers, auditor of the East Coast railway line, has had one in use for many years, and it shows not the slightest defect from wear and tear. The strop is made by taking the shaft of the agave and cutting it into lengths of twelve inches; these are split into four, or as many "quarters" as possible, allowing to each piece a sufficiency of the pulp or heart of the stalk to present a surface of not less than one inch, on which to strop a razor. The heart hardens in time and presents a fine, soft and naturally lubricated surface for stropping a razor. —Florida Times-Union.

Tar and Feathers in 1189.

In England the penalty of tar and feathers was introduced in 1189, when Richard I, before setting out for the Holy Land, ordained, in order to preserve the discipline of his fleet, that whosoever should be convicted of theft should first have his head shaved; that boiling pitch should then be poured upon it, and a cushion of feathers (de la plume d'oreiller) shaken over it. He was afterward to be put on shore at the first place the ship touched at; though, after a baptism of boiling pitch, the poor wretch, I fancy, would have little life left in him. In modern times the practice has found favor with the populace as a means of readily executing justice on an offender whom the law, perhaps, shows no anxiety to reach.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Famous Clown.

"I have known in my life but one clown who was so naturally gifted as to justify the reputation that he gained both in this country and in Europe. That was Joe Blackburn, an uncle of the present member of congress from Kentucky. He was an educated, cultivated man, possessing rare mother wit, a fine singer and a natural orator. He came from a good Kentucky family, went to Europe in 1842 and played in London, where he became a conspicuous figure in the clubrooms, and, although a circus clown, was recognized by the aristocratic men of the day, who were glad to enjoy his society."—Dan Rice in New York Epoch.

Family Objections Respected.

Old Friend—Why didn't you marry Mr. Nicefello?

Sweet Girl—His father objected.

Old Friend—I shouldn't have cared for that.

Sweet Girl—Y-e-s, but he said he would cut him off with a shilling.—Good News.

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since." PETER J. BRIALS, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.

THE Bravest 500 OF '61,

A Wonderful Book made from the records of the War Department.

COMPILED BY BVT. BRIG.-GEN. T. F. Rodenbough.

Of the 2,778,304 men enlisted in the Union Army and Navy, 1861-5, a little less than 500 were especially recognized by the War Dept., as coming under the Act of Congress, July 12, 1862, for distinguished bravery, which gave them the United States Medal of Honor.

Many of the stories, told by the heroes themselves, of how they won the high distinction, are extremely interesting. That the records of these deeds are almost unknown to their countrymen, but lie buried in the pigeon holes of the War Dept., and in the recesses of their own breasts, seems astonishing.

This book must find a wide sale, for it is full of incidents that will interest every old soldier in the land, and our boys will glory in it. It is an 8vo volume of over 500 pages, with nearly 100 excellent illustrations, made specially for the work.

It reeks of its time and deserves a place in the library of all who would not altogether forget the glorious past.
